

8.3 Billion Different Perspectives

There's over 8 billion different perspectives on this planet so you'll never convince me that it's not all mind. Over 8 billion of us with questionable mental health and one mental trait in common..

What triggers your emotions? Your mind does. What causes you to fear? Your mind does. What causes a mental health issue? A mind that is out of control. What's the one difference between all of us? The quality of what swims around in our minds..

Out of the 8.3 billion or so, would it be reasonable to assume that there's at least 0.3 billion of us who want to control (mind control) some or all of us? I'd say that's totally reasonable. Why do they want to do that? To gain some kind of advantage.

The quality of your life is down to the quality of your mind. You are creating your future right now.

Are there living environments where mind control doesn't exist? Yes, but to go there you have to desire to go there and you have to match their collective consciousness of no mind control. They are environments that are totally alien to this mind-controlled World.

Where will your future be? If you don't know that that says a lot about the quality of your mind..

If we didn't have 'physical' bodies, we wouldn't have emotions and fear. These feelings come about through our minds and are felt in our bodies. So a mind that is working for one's body (body mind) belongs to people who are emotional and fearful.

The 0.3 billion find it easy to get the 8 billion to work for them. Mind control is very easy. Just look at advertising – it's all designed to capture your mind.

Does this mind-control continue beyond your transitioning? Why wouldn't it? Your consciousness (you) doesn't suddenly change when you die! Without a physical body, you are still you!

We have all been mind-controlled to want a saviour – someone who can relieve us of our out of control, emotional minds and hopefully transport us to bliss, which we are not a conscious match to.

Please follow the logic – you can only be in an environment that you are a conscious match to - this is the law of attraction. So when you pass from here, the 'there' that you go to is only what you are equal to – of course it appears differently but it is the same consciousness as this World.

In the afterlife, there is also the relative few who are controlling the many and they are the so-called Lords of the Light. They are the tyrants and the many are the victims..

The Light is a holding pen – you can stay there indefinitely and participate in all kinds of illusions, but your Soul will always nudge you to continue to evolve yourself and that requires you to have a 'physical' body; hence sooner or later you will choose to reincarnate again to complete your journey.

So what is the opportunity for you now? To follow your Soul and master yourself and thus avoid the reincarnation trap. What is the upside of this journey? To experience lasting joy, which is the result of emotional mastery.

I write this because this is the conclusion I've come to. Death is neither a good option or the only option here, because the personality you are who causes you to die is the same person you pick up with in the afterlife. The Light is merely a recycling factory ~ Gary Bate of whatstress dot com.