

Ensure by Gary Bate

It is in your own contemplation and your willingness to dream that you can ensure a better life in the future. I write this to stimulate that contemplation and because this World never improves...

Sure there is a default path for those unaware Souls who are lazy in their minds – they are simply processed and end up back here at a future date.

But regardless of your views of the afterlife, one think seems to be in common – the Kingdom of Heaven is flexible! So if your cultural and religious upbringing makes you believe that you're going to lay with 1000 virgins maybe that's what you'll get!!

If and when you pass this World I'd suggest that you don't want to be one of the processed unaware.

The very fact that some of us can identify why this World is in such a mess, means that we also have the consciousness to thrive in a better World. And do they exist? Do advanced civilisations, like depicted in movies such as Avatar, exist? The fact that we can depict them means they exist...

You deserve the chance to 'step up' in your next life. Just like the moron who wants a 1000 virgins, you simply focus on how your new life will be. And hey presto you find yourself in the lap of a loving mother in a completely different race of beings. When it's your time make sure you dream...

You have bypassed the Light and by virtue of your contemplations you have become caught up in a frequency that matches them. You will never return to this crippled consciousness ~ Gary.
