

I wish I could help everyone by Gary Bate.

On the one hand I feel it would be remiss of me to not write this and on the other hand there's a certain reluctance in me to write this because I know I can't really help anyone.

What's the chances N & T will be Palestinians in their next lives? That's Karma and how God teaches all of us.

What are the genes you were born with? They are your Karma – your unfinished business..

You are never cursed by your parents (or grandparents); you just share a common genetic pool with them – commonalities in Karma – commonalities in unfinished business. Likewise, your children and grandchildren share common encumbrances with you.

They die and return to their Karma. What will you do?

The insurance on your future is your behaviour today and how you modify it.

If you think it's inevitable and set in stone then it is because you think that way.

Remember – all times exist now. You change your mind today and you change your future...

The best this World can do is to continually ask us common people for more and more money to help the plight of people and animals; yet there is never really a shortage of money - the shortage is a lack of political will to do the decent things.

The World's leaders could do the decent things but they don't because they work for the head of the snake. Instead we watch them 'act upon the stage' and call each other heroes.

The conclusion: we can't really help anyone and we live in a World that never improves, because it is totally controlled by tyrants. All we can do is work on ourselves and help each other.

If you die your destiny will be back here because if you die it means you've still got unfinished business here. Hopefully, you'll deduce from that, that you're here to finish up certain business.

I'm dismayed that I can't help you. I can only do what I've done, which is to make my mind available through my website ~ Gary Bate.

www.whatstress.com