

Silence the Senate by Gary Bate.

We are the children who sit in the middle of the colosseum and listen to all the senators (the voices of limitation). We get to decide if we adopt any...

We are the truth-tellers unto our realities, but we have internal voices – parasites, critics that do everything they can to bring us down. So there's this battle for how 'conscious' we can be.

I tell myself the truth and the senators always counter with some kind of bullshit. It's potentially fatal when you believe these parasites.

Do these death-rowers actually exist? O yes, but don't worry about it because all thoughts have forms in the infrared frequency. They are suckers, trying to bring you down and draining you of vital energy in the process. You can roll over and go belly up or you can fight for your truth by constantly reminding them who's the boss.

Every day we literally have to deal with the constant bullshit that swims around in our minds...

If you don't believe me try these truths on for size:

1. I cancel all destinies that lead to the conclusion of my life, which means I am immortal.
2. For all times, my cells are getting younger and stronger, which means I am revitalising and rejuvenating myself all of the time.
3. I am full of vital energy.

Repeat them a few times every day and 'observe' (be the child) the responses of the 'feeders'..

People come out with all kinds of Spiritual mumbo jumbo; yet I am saying it's nothing more than a battle for your mind and literally a battle for your immortality.

Death is a crap option here, because there's no map and if you've already succumbed to bodily death; how are you going to navigate thereafter?

We have to stop playing the victim.

We have to get a grip and we have to do it now. We've already experienced the slippery slope, because of the lack of real education. Immortality is a state of mind and it starts here and now.

In the past, I've been frustrated because of the lack of manifestation; but I now realise that there was no lack of manifestation: the senators were winning the battle and I was manifesting their bullshit!

Life is fragile and the grim reaper comes calling sooner or later. We mustn't 'give in'; we must make a stand and fight for our truth.

So what's this bullshit these senators dish out? It's all of the lies you observe – the untruths and everything that is unreal. FANTASY is not just some person you dribble over.

I hope you can relate to this because then it will be helpful to you ~ Gary.
