

Wiring by Gary Bate

You can only be helped if you accept that you created it in the first place. Because if you can accept that, then you can change it.

Neuroplasticity is a fact and it occurs in everyone. What wires together fires together.

You are how you've wired yourself to be (albeit unconsciously). Once you've accepted that then you can rewire and create a new version of yourself.

Your subconsciousness mind is timeless. It houses all thoughts from all times – both limiting (lower) thoughts and unlimited ones. You get a new thought and that's where it comes from...

We are that which we have wired ourselves to be. We have looked at our surroundings, made certain associations and conclusions and repeated them many times, thus hard-wiring ourselves.

Our lives are magical because we don't get it from hard work or anything that we do; we get it from hard wiring. Have a good think about that. It's the reason one has more blessings than another.

You have pain & suffering because it's wired into you and you did that. It's that same with lack of anything. Your body and your bank balance are the evidence.

You buy a house and the wiring is a bit dodgy so you decide to rewire and get all of that fan-dangled new tech - think it and it turns on (just like your body!). Now it looks like a new house.

Evolution is rewiring, in exactly the same way as you previously wired yourself – via making new associations and conclusions and repeating them until they manifest the desired experiences...

Where's God in all of this? There's only form and formless that exist. God is the formless.

So do thoughts (consciousness) have a form? Go look in the mirror. The lower thoughts have form but the highest (most pure) thoughts are formless. God is the latter – the most unlimited thoughts... This is why to commune with God you have to become naked (without any images or limitations).

God is literally within you (within all of us). God resides in your subconscious mind as the most pure consciousness (all unlimited thoughts). When rewiring is done - “the Father and I are ONE”.

Let's take a look at this: If I say I want Radiant Health then I am coming from lack (not having it) and I don't get it. But if I say I have ALWAYS been radiantly healthy, then the wheels of change start to move. The button has been pressed but hard-wiring requires plenty of repetition (to keep the wheels going until the experiences manifest). Keep watering your garden until the flowers bloom...

If you say I am ALWAYS fabulously wealthy but you doubt it, then you wire doubt in with your creation of fabulous wealth and of course you don't get your wealth. It's the same being full of joy.

But if you say I am ALWAYS fabulously wealthy and I am ALWAYS radiantly healthy and I am ALWAYS full of joy and you keep the negative elements out of your creations (by metaphorically chopping the head off the demons) then the wheels of those manifestations will continue to roll until the experiences occur. I hope you're getting this and seeing what the button for change is? ~ Gary.
